By P. D.

My attention has been called to a sign which has made its appearance on various college and University campuses here in the South. (Right here and now I deny having had any part of it.) The sign, which reads, FOR WHITE TRASH ONLY, has been seen sticking on waste paper baskets, trash cans, etc. In a letter I received recently a person suggested that a sticker be printed reading: FOR WHITE DOGS ONLY . . . to be placed on trees throughout the southern states. (Some folks ain't very couth, it seems.) Anyway, on page 2 I have printed the "white trash only" sign as a public service to the members of the Ku Klux Councils. Just clip it, smear some paste on the back, and it's ready for use.

The editorial, "Almost Another American Myth", was run in this paper on October 11. It is being reprinted again in the hope, however foolish, of getting across the point that there is a vast difference in "civil-legal rights and personal-social privileges." Some of us seem to overlook this difference with a rare degree of consistancy, and I can't help but wonder if not on purpose. At any rate, there is one thing I've noticed in the South, and that is the fact that there is no discrimination against anyone, including Negro citizens, when they walk into a business place with a dollar bill in their hand.

Orders for the booklet of editorial reprints are coming in well, thank goodness. It's really a good deal: No money down, and thirty days to pay four-bits. Kindly send your name and address only.

Perhaps I shouldn't mention this, but man's humor being what it is, . . . well. Seems that my good friend Joe Allbritton has had his ups and downs of late. First, Joe fell out of the bath tub, so I've been told, then he slipped on the wet floor and fell into the tub. On falling into the tub he cracked some ribs. His wife, Doll, heard him yelling, so she rushed into to see what happened. In her excitement, Doll turned on the hot water. Result of that was Joe got scalded feet. Joe continuing to yell, Doll then turned on the cold water. That cooled Joe off and almost drownded him.

Having been told by his doctor to take a few days off, Joe did, and went fishing. While fishing his motor went haywire so he sat out in the rain. The exposure to the Editor,

Petal Paper

While here on a visit this week a friend of mine showed me a copy of your Petal Paper. In fact when I showed my enthusiasm, the friend produced a whole stack of them for my perusal. After due exclamations of disbelief that such as this could come out of Mississippi, (you will understand that up North we have a perhaps somewhat different impression of the spirit of Mississippi than that put forth in your paper!) my friend convinced me that you were indeed alive and still in business and that somehow you also were able to find people who were willing to use your paper as a medium for advertising.

Since I believe this is a point of view we ought to know about, may I ask you to add my name to your list of subscribers?

I enclose my check for $3.00 and with it go my blessings on you as well as my unbounded admiration for your courage and your professional ability as a writer.

Cordially,
Mrs. Thelma W. Babbitt,

Dear Sir:

In a previous communication addressed to you, I was guilty of a linguistic error in that I referred to the Norwegians as Swedes. This occurred in consequence of a current error among native born Americans of calling all Scandinavians Swedes though it is a well known fact that Scandinavians are of three distinct nationalities who do not esteem each other very highly. A Swede says that a Norwegian is a Swede with his

Do Negroes Have Rights?—

Almost Another American Myth

It is imperative now that responsible citizens, irrespective of color or creed, talk about race problems in their communities and state. In resolving this crisis over public schools it is vital to the honor, peace and progress of the state that there be mutal respect, goodwill and intelligent cooperation between our white and colored races.

In the promotion of these objectives it is up to the white people to lead the way because of economic and political power are on their side.

Their first move should be to do everything they can to banish forever what is left of the cruel and absurd notion that there could possibly be any stigma attached to any human being because of race, color or other physical characteristics. The Creator never stigmatizes anybody . . .

The next step our white people should take to help create a wholesome climate for tolerance, justice and interracial cooperation is to try to convince everybody, especially themselves, that in democratic America no citizen's rights are meted out on a basis of color, creed, occupation, education, intelligence, wealth or social position. Human dignity, freedom, justice and civil rights are indivisible — all our citizens must have them equally or none can ever be secure in them.

All our people, colored and white, need also to understand the vast difference between civil-legal rights and personal-social privileges. In the latter field discrimination is not a bad word nor an evil practice. In our personal affairs and social relationships we all discriminate and, indeed, must do so to get along.

In these relationships background, color of skin and other factors can and frequently do make practical differences which must be considered. Recognition of such differences does not reflect on anybody. Difference is freedom, justice, fair and equal treatment under law. Interracial conferences on segregation problems that do not start from that basis can accomplish no lasting good.

History and our own experiences teach us that attempts to force the mixing of the races in some areas of life, ignoring the customs and preferences of the people involved, are not only unrealistic but dangerous. Progress in these fields must come sowly and naturally by mutual acceptance or the great gains already achieved could suffer a severe setback or be lost altogether.

By sensible cooperation on a fair and equal voluntary basis our white and citizens can "have their cake an eat it too" in public schools, public recreation, in their churches and in many other fields . . .

Because our Negro citizens are a minority group with relatively little political or economic power they would be severely penalized in the "private enterprise" developments in all the fields under discussion . . .

Our white citizens have delayed much too long in sharing policy making responsibilities in civil, educational and governmental affairs with colored fellow citizens. For instance, the case for public school segregation is greatly weakened without proper Negro representation on school boards and commissions.

The best insurance for a segregated public school system, voluntarily maintained, would be intergation on the offical level, giving Negroes a proportionate voice in the operation of seperate schools, which most of them, sincerely as the whites, genuinely desire. Furthermore, there should be a proper ratio of Negro representation on the official level in other governmental agencies, local and state.

Should disasters take place in this con-

Mrs. Ann Edmondson, pianist, and Mrs. O. E. Jones, vocalist, presented the program.

The Thanksgiving theme was used in the decorations arranged by Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Jack Burks.

Door prizes were donated by the following merchants: The Jewelry Shop, Nelson's Shoe Store, Louis Tailroing Co., Happy Acre Packing Co., Dixie Packing Co., Two-Acre Truck Stop, Western Auto of Petal, White Way Cleaners, Jitney-Jungle of Petal, City Drug Store, and Byrd's Firestone Store.

President O. N. Ashcraft announced that the club will not meet tonight, Nov. 22, because of Thanksgiving holidays.

Five Teachers Are Honored By State Department

J. M. Tubb, State Superintendent of Education has issued Certificates of Merit to the following five people who have served the cause of public education for fifty years or more and have now retired: Mrs. Murlenum R. Bowman, Vicksburg, 57 years; Mrs. Nellie B. Brown, Meridian, 51 years; Mr. Ben Allen Brumley, Fulton, 51 years, Mrs. Cresie R. Franklin, Aberdeen, 54 years; and Miss Gertie E. Toler, Clinton, Louisiana, 58 years.

The presentation of these Certificates by mail by State Superintendent Tubb is a particular and very special part of the State Department of Education's observance of American Education Week.

Among these five people are three white and two Negro school leaders.

These Certificates were signed by the members of the State Board of Education: State Superintendent Tubb, Chairman; Heber Ladner, Secretary of State; and Joe T. Patterson, Attorney General. From each of these board members and from the entire staff of the State Department of Education go very best wishes to each of these five people for their long, valuable and faithful service to the youth of our land.

Marine Aviation Posts Now Open

Captain H. A. Commiskey, Sr., Officer in Charge of Marine Corps Recruiting in Mississippi has announced that the Marine Corps is accepting a limited number of applicants for enlistment in the Regular Marine Corps who express an interest in aviation duties with a guaranteed assignment to an aviation school within prescribed quotas.

The aviation field of the Marine Corps comprises about 20% of the Corps' enlisted strength. Up to now, men were selected to go to the aviation field and aviation schools, but now, you can enlist in the Regular Marine Corps and be guaranteed an aviation school. The promotional opportunities in the aviation field are excellent for the Marine entering today.

The latest report from Joe's bedside was to this effect: Joe couldn't lie down because of the pleurisy and the cracked ribs; he couldn't stand up because of the scalded feet, and he couldn't sit down because of the fall into the bath tub. It appears there ain't no where for Joe to go! Po' ole Joe . . .

ADVICE TO THE TV NETWORKS

A big controversy between Ed Sullivan and Steve Allen over who "stole" acts from whom. If one network has its important show at 8 o'clock, the other network puts on its own big show at the same time, thus competing for the same audience. I do not see the logic in this at all. Why divide the audience? It seems to me that if one network has Ed Sullivan or Arthur Godfrey at a certain hour, the other network should use Steve Allen or Como at a different hour. I would try of course to have my competing show precede or follow the other network's big fellows. The folks could have Ed Sullivan and when he is through they turn the dial and get themselves Steve Allen too. This sounds so logical that maybe something is wrong with it; I do not know enough about it to see the flaw, if any. Opposite a man like Ed Sullivan, with all those expensive vaudeville acts, I would have a fellow like myself sitting at a table, reading from Plato or Henry George. It would be interesting to see what happened.

The above was written by Harry Golden in his Carolina Israelite, appearing in the current issue. I agree with Harry, and have expressed the same view to a number of persons in the past month or so. But, as Harry says, it's so logical that maybe something is wrong with it. Personally, I'd prefer the Jewish philosopher Golden reading from Plato. I say in all sincerety, if you haven't read Harry's paper you are missing one of the rare treats of our times. It's the best two bucks you can spend, believe me.

Judging from one of the letters printed in the paper recently, I am inclined to believe that a lie is what anyone might say with which we disagree.

Also, some comment about the letters printed two weeks ago, one having been from Oregon, one from Washington, and one from Brockton, Mass. It's easy to explain: You see, I have more subscribers in Portland, Ore. than I have in Petal, Miss. Well, almost, anyway!

Once again a reminder to restaurant owners in these parts: Gents, please, water is inexpensive around here, true, but it doesn't take near so much to make coffee as you seem to think.

A sidelight on human nature . . . said a zoologist: "People are just as funny to monkeys as monkeys are to people." Frankly, I differ from the views of the monkey. I think people are funnier.

Heard recently this difinition: An egghead is a person who knows a great deal more than you do, but who doesn't have half as much sense.

I LIKE IKE . . . Ike Farris, that is. He's the only Ike who advertises with me.

Dear Sir:

In a previous communication addressed to you, I was guilty of a linguistic error in that I referred to the Norwegians as Swedes. This occurred in consequence of a current error among native born Americans of calling all Scandinavians Swedes though it is a well known fact that Scandinavians are of three distinct nationalities who do not esteem each other very highly. A Swede says that a Norwegian is a Swede with his brains knocked out and the Norwegian reverses the compliment.

I once asked a Dane which was right. "Brains is it?" he said, "I never heard of their having any." "All they know is what we Danes taught them and we had to use a cold chisel and a top-maul to get it in."

Some forty years ago, the pastor of the Methodist Church at Skamokawa, which is by way of being the second city in Wahkiakum County, State of Washington, ran out of hard cash which is not, as I understand, a not unusual experience with the Methodist clergy. Some of the brethren are inclined to take this lying down, but this one resolved to try to do something about it and it occurred to him that he might be able to raise the wind, financially speaking, by selling Life and Accident Insurance to the Logging camp hands.

Well, he sallied forth and the first man he met was standing guard at the railroad highway crossing. He greeted the guardian and, when the man replied, the preacher said: "I observe by your accent that you are a Swede."

"I used to be," said the guardian, "but I am now an American Citizen."

Ah ha, an American Citizen and proud of it.

In the course of time there came into existence a quasi-politico organization known as the I. W. W. of which the war cry was that everything is rotten in society and government, and that the only way of escape from ultimate and complete putrifaction lay through the open door of the I. W. W.

Their language, ordinarily was quite lurid. Now it happened that during the progress of the I. W. W. aforesaid, that one of their apostles held forth in the bunk house of a logging camp on the iniquity of all that is and, that having exhausted his vocabulary in his denunciation of the State, the Nation and Big Business, he gave attention to the symbols of the same and in due time arrived at the point of considering the American flag. "It makes me sick," he said, "to hear people talk about the great and good things that the flag stands for. The truth is that it stands for everything that is rotten in State and Society."

"It is a D— D— rag and if I had a specimen of it before me, I would spit on it."

At this moment a Swede arose. He went on the air and said: "Any man who spits on the American Flag spits on me. You have not spit on it but you want to, which is just as bad."

Taking off from the air, the gence, wealth or social position. Human dignity, freedom, justice and civil rights are indivisible — all our citizens must have them equally or none can ever be secure in them.

All our people, colored and white, need also to understand the vast difference between civil-legal rights and personal-social privileges. In the latter field discrimination is not a bad word nor an evil practice. In our personal affairs and social relationships we all discriminate and, indeed, must do so to get along.

In these relationships background, color of skin and other factors can and frequently do make practical differences which must be considered. Recognition of such differences does not reflect on anybody. Difference is not stigma, nor sin. It is natural and necessary. A free society is full of differences and benefits enormously from them.

It is violently contradictory in a free nation for anyone to insist that "white supremacy," or any other sort of racial "supremacy,' be supported by law. The only supremacy that can properly be a part of our government is the supremacy of individual tal affairs with colored fellow citizens. For instance, the case for public school segregation is greatly weakened without proper Negro representation on school boards and commissions.

The best insurance for a segregated public school system, voluntarily maintained, would be intergation on the offical level, giving Negroes a proportionate voice in the operation of seperate schools, which most of them, sincerely as the whites, genuinely desire. Furthermore, there should be a proper ratio of Negro representation on the official level in other governmental agencies, local and state.

Should disasters take place in this connection all informed people surely must realize which race would suffer most greviously. The Negro race has been handicapped far too much already. Our colored and white citizens owe it to themselves and to each other to cooperate intelligently in peaceful and constructive evolution rather than to allow their current racial difficulties to precipitate chaos and revolution.

TRAFFIC FLOWS across the Lake Pontchartrain Causeway, world's longest bridge. The 24 mile structure gives Mississippians a time-saving route to New Orleans and Texas.

New Causeway Opened Into New Orleans

An arrow-straight bridge across Lake Pontchartrain in southeastern Louisiana offers Mississippians a new, time-saving approach to Metropolitan New Orleans.

The bridge, opened to traffic on August 30, is called the Lake Pontchartrain Causeway. A look at bridge statistics shows the Causeway to be the longest overwater bridge anywhere. It bisects what is almost the exact middle of the lake, extending 24 miles north-south from shore to shore.

To get to the Causeway, motorists traveling on U. S. Hwy. 11 from Petal turn right at Poplarville and follow Miss. Hwy. 26 to Bogalusa, La., and then south on La. Hwy. 21 to the bridge site. Studies by traffic engineers show a saving in time of at least 30 minutes for drivers using the Causeway route in preference to the road around the Lake through Slidell, La. Distance from Petal to New Orleans via the Lake Pontchartrain Causeway is 115 miles.

The Causeway is a straight thoroughfare with no intersections to impede traffic flow. The old route around the lake carries traffic through congested urban areas built out many miles from the central business section of New Orleans.

The Causeway is the major link in the $51-million Greater New Orleans Expressway, a network of bridges, feeder routes, modern approaches, traffic interchanges and grade separations that adds some 37 miles to the Louisiana highway system.

The Causeway route runs through the heart of the famous "ozone" belt in the scenic wooded highlands of St. Tammany Parish (county); then south across Lake Pontchartrain and into Jefferson Parish, adjoining New Orleans. Its southern terminus is just a short drive from towntown New Orleans.

Perhaps You Need Glasses For Hunting

One sportman dentist wears prescription hunting glasses with the optical centers of the lens ground way in the upper left-hand corner.

"That's where I look when I sight my rifle," he explains. "And I want that to be perfect as possible."

Spectacle lenses, especially in strong powers, produce the most exact focus in one small area — the optical center. Vision through any other part of the lens may not be perfect. In ordinary seeing, this is not so important because the head is moved and eyes keep pretty well in the lens center.

When taking aim, the hunter never looks through the center of his glasses, he tilts his head and angles his sight in the corner of his glasses. Placing the best focus of the lens in that spot, as in the dentist's glasses, can give more accurate hunting vision.

But, that isn't all. "Last time

The Basic College at Mississippi Southern College

To the average college student, the first few months in college are in many ways the most important. It is in this period that major adjustments are made to a new life. How this social, cultural and psychological transition is handled can mean success or failure in a college career.

The average freshman comes to college filled with an awkward mixture of joy and apprehension. Complete with a new suit of clothes, a tie, a radio, an alarm clock, and other paraphernalia, he approaches with eager caution his new adventure—college. He probably grew up in a small town and was "in" with the girls, boys, parents, and teachers. He was something of a leader in school and outside activities. With this nebulous background he set off for college fortified with a "high school experience" with living, to meet the problems of a new life.

Once at college things move with blinding speed for the freshman. He arives in his room which he finds occupied with roommates of various shapes, sizes, personalities, and of widely varied backgrounds. There are the orientation tests, physical examinations, conferences, talks on "Studying", "adjustment", and "college spirit". Then there are the lines without which "college" would not be college—"chow lines", "registration lines", "fee lines", "bookstore lines", and even the "fraternity line."

But in the end all seems to work out with a surprising degree of clarity and effectiveness. President William D. McCain has given much of the credit for reducing to a minimum the "red tape" and confusion of adjustment at Mississippi Southern College to the Basic College. Under the leadership of Dr. Porter L. Fortune, Dean of the Basic College, students have come to enjoy a caliber of personal and efficient advisement enjoyed in few colleges, Dr. McCain reports. In academic and advisory supervision of the lower division at Southern, Dr. Fortune has instituted an effective program which provides a broad educational foundation on which students can build a critical and intelligent interest in the fundamentals of culture which concern all men.

Glasses . . .

out," he told his optometrist, "a twig flipped my glasses off and broke 'em. I was on the shelf the rest of the trip. Give me safety glasses."

Breakage hazards can be eliminated by either heat-treated glass or the new plastic lenses ground to any prescription. The hunter's eyes at the same time are protected from dirt, flying twigs and danger of injury.

"One more thing," added the persistent dentist, "I walk over lots of rough terrain and that's hard to do with bifocals." The solution in his case was a small bifocal section, set low in the lens and easy to look over, to get rid of ground blur.

Problems of light glare and fogging of the lenses can be handled by the same kind of treatment. Optical coating, as used on the lenses of a telescopic sight of a pair of binoculars, cuts down reflections and glare. With this coating, lens surfaces are easier to keep clean and don't fog so easily. Tints can be added to control brightness, the shade depending upon exact outdoor conditions in which glasses are used and the individual's light sensitivity.

"Now sharpen my distance seeing as much as you can," continued the dentist. "I want the highest visual efficiency and minimum eye fatigue to insure my fun and safety on this next trip."

teacher to earn his doctor of philosophy degree. Often eight years he says. And by the time the goal is crossed the teaching by the teacher thereafter can be impaired. Certainly as to its inspirational quality, one might think. Dr. Wright implies the degree requirements are at fault. Three to four years of writing and research beyond the bachelor's degree are enough, he thinks.

Something else is at fault, too. As a rule teachers who spend long years working toward their Ph.D. do so through economic necessity as much as through excessive demands of advisers and examining committees. Most would prefer to put in a shorter period of concentrated work. And, we would hazard a guess, most of the colleges and preparatory schools which employ them would much prefer to grant them one or more sabbatical years—if they could afford to. But institutional budgets and familes to feed are more inexorable taskmasters than even the tradition that has made an M.A. for high school and a Ph.D. for college teaching almost a necessity.

There is something else wrong with the Ph.D. for more teachers—as distinct from research experts. The American Ph.D. requires that the candidate make an "addition to knowledge." Demonstrated competence in synthesizing and interpreting knowledge is not enough. Yet that is what four teachers out of five are called upon to do—to lead their students toward a comprehension of the wide world around them.

The lengths to which candidates are often driven in order to find some nook or corner of unplowed ground to cover in doctorial these are grotesque indeed. Granting that scholarly research is an unparalleled disciplinarian in analytical and judicial thinking, complete immersion in it does not always lead to inspirational teaching. How about a Ph.D. oriented toward the "synoptic view"?

Information On Social Security

By Luther N. Davis

Some elderly couples will receive their Social Security benefits this month combined into a single family check. Wives of retired workers who filed their claims within the last month will have their checks combined with their husbands' if they are living at the same address, and are not entitled to benefits based upon their own work records.

Until now, retired workers and their wives have been paid benefits each month in separate checks. Being paid their monthly benefits in a single check will make the cashing of checks simpler for many of these couples. Both of them must sign their names on the back of the check before the check can be cashed.

About a million and a quarter wives are entitled to benefits based upon their husbands' Social Security Accounts. For the present, combined checks will be issued only as wives of retired workers file their claims for benefits and are put on the benefit rolls, or where payments to a husband and wife have been stopped and are being started again. However, no combination of the Social Security benefits to a husband and wife will be made where they are not living together or where part of the wife's benefit amount is an old-age benefit based on her own record of work under Social Security.

Any person who for any reason objects to having his or her benefit combined with that of a spouse will be paid by separate check.

Swede went into action and in consequence of said action, the I. W. W. Apostle was soon on a stretcher and headed for a hospital.

The Management thought so highly of this that they gave the Swedish-American a three weeks vacation with full pay and a finishing touch of $25.00 in cash. Here was a man who was not only proud, but made it pay.

Well, this all happened in the long gone past, but as I look over the political and business situation, what do I see? A Swede in the governor's chair, a Swede reelected to the U. S. Senate, a Swede in the presidency of the Wahkiakum County Bank and a Swede officiating as public prosecutor of Wahkiakum County.

As I look further I see the shadow of the Swede in the person of the Head of the Supreme Court falling athwart the Sunny South.

Here, brother, with Billy Graham's favorite benediction, which I trust you know by heart.

With NiCarbazin in the Feed Higher Returns are in the Bag

You can count on these double benefits when you feed mashes containing NiCarbazin: ZERO MORTALITY from both cecal and intestinal coccidiosis and PRACTICALLY NO TISSUE DAMAGE.

These are key reasons why all leading broiler feeds today contain NiCarbazin. Of course, the good things that NiCarbazin does for your profit picture add up to even more.

Your NiCarbazin-protected birds will weigh more, dress out more uniformly and show sharper fleshing color when the coxy problem is eliminated. Feed efficiency will go up and production costs will go down.

If you want fewer culls, less down-grading, top market prices, do what thousands of growers are doing. Start your next brood on NiCarbazin feeds—ask your feed dealer for feeds containing NiCarbazin.

"How much more do I get now?"

Everyone knows it costs more to build nowadays: materials of all kinds are up and so is the pay of construction workers, just like the pay of workers in most all lines.

Southern Bell employees in Mississippi, for instance, have received six wage rate increases since 1949... This, and two other items: an income tax increase and cost increases associated with our additional investment in the State – have added over $7½ million a year to our cost of furnishing service... and to offset this, we are receiving additional revenue of only $3¾ million a year from rate increases.

Adequate earnings are necessary to keep telephone service good and to enable us to improve and expand it in step with Mississippi's growth and progress ...We need to spend another $34 million in the State in 1956-57, which must come from investors who will let us use their money in expectation of a reasonable return.

To raise earnings to a reasonable level, we are asking the Public Service Commission to make a thorough study of our revenue needs and to set rates that will be fair to telephone users and the Company.
